"We believe in the dignity of every human being and that change is possible"

FOREWORD

Dear friends of REMAR Switzerland

I was particularly moved by how many older people are struggling with financial difficulties.

An encounter with an elderly lady who told me about her worries touched me deeply.

It was painful to see how ashamed she was to ask for help, even though her plight was obvious.

This experience brought home to me the urgency of openly addressing poverty in old age and raising awareness of the issue.

2025 was a year of growth – and responsibility – for REMAR Switzerland. We distributed 113,256 food parcels, saved 544 tonnes of food and reached 23,743 people. Behind these figures are real people. Families like Nicole's, elderly women like Mrs Gut, and many others whose names we keep confidential, but whose stories we will never forget.

REMAR's particular strength lies in our flexibility and our unbureaucratic way of working. This enables us to respond quickly and effectively to the individual needs of the people who seek our support.

At the same time, we look beyond Switzerland's borders. REMAR is active in Ukraine, Burkina Faso, Ghana, Côte d'Ivoire and Poland. Humanitarian work knows no national boundaries.

REMAR plans to further expand its reach in 2026: with additional distribution points, more volunteers and new partnerships. These steps give me hope, because they enable us to provide practical support to even more people in need.

This report is our accountability report – to you, our foundation partners, donors, companies, food partners and volunteers. None of this would be possible without your trust and support.

With heartfelt thanks and deep appreciation,

Paulo Oliveira
Managing Director, REMAR Switzerland

SWITZERLAND

Hidden poverty in Switzerland

In Switzerland, around one in six people are at risk of poverty. That is over 1.3 million people. This is not a marginal phenomenon, but involves neighbours, colleagues, parents and pensioners – people we pass on the street every day.

Around one in six people in Switzerland is at risk of poverty.

1.3 million

PEOPLE WE PASS IN THE STREET EVERY DAY

This poverty does not make itself heard. It shows itself in a fridge that remains empty, not because someone has forgotten to go shopping, but because there isn't enough money. It shows itself in unpaid bills, in the fear of losing one's home, in the sense of shame that prevents people from asking for help.

Rents in Switzerland have risen by an average of 3.2% over the last five years. Health insurance premiums are set to rise by an average of 4.4% in 2026. For households on the poverty line, this presents a mathematically impossible equation: expenditure is rising, whilst income remains the same. Savings have to be made somewhere. Most often, it's on food.

> "Poverty has many faces. It is silent. And it often goes unnoticed."

Since 1992, REMAR Switzerland has been active precisely where hardship is easiest to overlook.

A STORY

“Fear turns into confidence”

Sometimes the fridge is almost empty. That’s not because Nicole has forgotten to go shopping – it’s because she’s run out of money.

Nicole is 37 years old and has a six-year-old daughter. She is a single mother and works part-time in care. She can’t work any more than that – there’s no one to look after her young daughter. Her fixed costs are rising: rent, health insurance, food.

Every month, the same question: what can we afford, and what do we have to do without?

Nowadays, Nicole visits the REMAR Drop-off point regularly. She says it’s not just the parcel that helps; it’s the feeling of being seen.

Nicole is not her real name. But her story is real. In Switzerland.

A STORY

"I never imagined that one day I would need help myself"

Mrs Gut has spent her entire working life in the healthcare sector. Helping others was her profession, her raison d'être and an important part of her identity. The thought that she herself might one day be in need of support was, for a long time, unthinkable to her.

Then came the sudden disability. Her mobility was restricted, her flat became an island, and her social contacts dried up. At the same time, the bills mounted up. Eventually, she was faced with a choice that should not exist in Switzerland: heating or food.

What weighed most heavily on her was not just the financial hardship. It was the shame. Having spent her life as a nurse, having to ask for help herself felt like a personal failure.

REMAR stepped in discreetly. Without unnecessary hurdles, without judgement, without public humiliation. A box of food was delivered. Someone asked how she was getting on. And Mrs Gut realised: accepting help does not mean losing out. It means not being alone.

Mrs Gut is not her real name. But her story is true. It is a reality experienced every day in Switzerland by people we would never suspect of being in need.

ABOUT US

REMAR Switzerland

Since 1992, REMAR Switzerland has been fighting hidden poverty – discreetly, straightforwardly and with an open heart. Founded as part of the international REMAR network, which is now active in several countries, REMAR Switzerland has developed into an organisation that provides concrete, regular and personalised support to people in difficult life situations.

Our approach sets us apart: we don't just deliver food and hygiene products to distribution points – we take them directly to people. In particular, older people, those with reduced mobility, families without access to transport and people in acute need receive help exactly where it is needed.

Mission

We tackle hidden poverty in Switzerland through direct, dignified assistance – whilst at the same time creating opportunities for social integration through volunteering.

Vision

A Switzerland where no one has to choose between paying the rent and putting food on the table.

What we do

REMAR Switzerland runs 11 distribution points in German-speaking Switzerland, distributes food and hygiene parcels every month, organises personal visits to elderly people and those with limited mobility, and promotes integration through peer volunteering.

PROJECT: HIDDEN POVERTY IN SWITZERLAND

How we work

Since 2016, REMAR Switzerland has been running its core project under the name "Hidden Poverty in Switzerland." At 11 distribution points across German-speaking Switzerland, we distribute monthly food and hygiene packages to people whose income is insufficient to afford the bare essentials.

What's inside every package

Everyday essentials – including staples, canned goods, and fresh produce whenever possible – as well as hygiene products such as soap, shampoo, toothpaste, and laundry detergent. These are things that seem like a given. Yet for over a million people in Switzerland, they are anything but a matter of course.

Who we help

Around 40% of recipients are families with children – 45,300 packages went to families with underage children in 2025. Around 50% are adult individuals, 65% of whom are women. Around 10% are older people over 65.

Our Trade Partnerships

REMAR works with a network of commercial partners who donate food. In 2025, we saved 544 tonnes of food from destruction in this way – and delivered it to where it was needed.

We go to the people.

Older people, individuals with disabilities, and families without their own means of transport receive support directly in their homes. Help comes to them; they do not have to travel to get it.

Our distribution points are located in Wetzikon, Winterthur, Uster, Dübendorf, Effretikon, and other locations. Two new distribution points were opened in 2025. We plan to expand to 13 locations by the end of 2026.

THE IMPACT OF YOUR DONATION

What your donation achieves

Every franc that reaches REMAR Switzerland has a sixfold impact. This is not just a claim – it is the result of our impact assessment, which compares monetary donations with in-kind donations, volunteer hours and pro bono services.

CHF 50

enables a food delivery to a family in need.

CHF 100

funds personal visits and everyday support for lonely elderly people.

CHF 250

provides a family with food and hygiene products for a whole month

CHF 10,000

results in a total impact of CHF 60,000 – through donations in kind, volunteer hours and pro bono services

OUR VOLUNTEERS

People who help – because they know what it feels like.

At REMAR, the people helping are those who know firsthand what it means to need support. That is no coincidence; it is a deliberate approach.

In 2025, 60 active peer volunteers worked at our distribution points – divided into three groups that couldn't be more different, yet fit together perfectly for that very reason.

Apprentices

They come to REMAR because they want to learn what no school can teach: what it feels like to be there for others and to be needed. They bring energy, digital skills, and the perspective of a generation that still believes the world can be changed.

Senior citizens

They bring what no training course can teach: decades of lived experience, patience, and the quiet conviction that small gestures make a big difference. They work because they want to be needed – and because helping keeps you young.

People with refugee status

They come to REMAR as recipients and stay as active participants. Through active involvement, they find social connections, language skills, a daily routine, and dignity. This is not merely a programme; it is integration through participation.

Three groups. A shared stance. An impact that works in both directions.

CHF 300,000 in monetised volunteer work in 2025 (based on the SKOS approach).

Seniors and single mothers 2025

Around 10% of our beneficiaries – approximately 2,389 people in 2025 – are seniors over the age of 65. Many live alone, subsist on a modest pension, and face a daily choice: paying rent, covering health insurance costs, or buying food. This group often feels a deep sense of shame about seeking help. REMAR reaches out to them directly – discreetly, without paperwork, and without judgment.

Single mothers are among the groups in Switzerland most severely affected by hidden poverty. They work – often part-time, as childcare constraints dictate – yet still struggle to make ends meet.

In 2025, families with children were among our largest beneficiary groups:

40%

40% of all parcels went to households with children under 18 – around 45,300 parcels in total.

REMAR Digital

The bridge between people in need and those who want to help

In 2019, for the first time, there were more people of retirement age living in Switzerland than children and young people under the age of 20. By 2050, almost one in three residents will be over 65. The challenges are well known; the solutions are not.

REMAR Digital is REMAR's response to this demographic reality. It is a simple app with two buttons: "I need help" and "I want to help." No queues, no government offices, no public exposure. Those in need of assistance can request it discreetly – whether for groceries, clothing, or help with daily tasks.

What REMAR Digital enables

Anonymous requests for help without embarrassment, short waiting times between need and fulfilment, transparent impact for donors and volunteers, and intergenerational connections through a digital community.

Why REMAR can offer this

Over 30 years' experience in tackling poverty, 11 distribution points in German-speaking Switzerland, a well-established network of retail partners, public authorities and volunteers. Pilot projects in 2025: Wetzikon, Winterthur, Uster. Target by 2028: to reach 2,000 older people directly and 8,000 indirectly.

Charity Dinner
September 2025

On 12 September 2025, REMAR Switzerland hosted a charity dinner – an evening dedicated to connection, gratitude, and the future. Seventy-five guests from the business sector, the world of foundations, and civil society gathered to stand together for a Switzerland built on solidarity.

The evening focused on the presentation of REMAR Digital and on personally thanking all supporters. Eight food partners contributed to the event, and thirty donations were received directly. The warm atmosphere and the immense commitment shown by everyone involved demonstrated the strength of our community's solidarity.

Active since 2002. Annual budget: around CHF 200,000. REMAR Burkina Faso operates in Ouagadougou, Bobo-Dioulasso, Kaya, and Fada N'Gourma, offering a wide range of programmes that combine education, reintegration, humanitarian aid, and economic empowerment.

Education and Child Protection

2 primary schools

REMAR operates two primary schools in Ouagadougou (Nioko 2 and Lanoayiri).

320 children

The two schools currently teach 320 children (capacity: 400). Schooling is fully subsidised by REMAR Burkina.

Kaya

A child-friendly space in Kaya has been planned and an application submitted, but funding for its implementation is still pending. The project would include schooling, meals and support services.

Vocational Training and Reintegration

Training

At reintegration centres in Ouagadougou and Bobo-Dioulasso, former prisoners, young offenders and people recovering from addiction receive practical vocational training in tailoring, welding, hairdressing, carpentry, and basic computer skills.

The aim is sustainable economic self-reliance.

Humanitarian Prison Aid

MACO & MACB

At the MACO (Ouagadougou) and MACB (Bobo-Dioulasso) prisons, REMAR distributes meals to vulnerable inmates, as well as hygiene kits and clothing, twice a week.

300 prisoners per visit

During every deployment at MACO, REMAR reaches around 300 prisoners with hot meals.

Rare civil society presence

REMAR's humanitarian prison work is one of the few instances of civil society presence in these facilities.

Bicycles for Africa

Bicycles collected in Switzerland and shipped by container to Burkina Faso enable children and young people in rural areas to make their daily journey to school – and give families access to markets, water sources, and healthcare facilities.

A simple remedy with a measurable effect.

Solar technology and agriculture

Solar Oven Project

The solar oven project empowers women and young people to achieve economic independence through solar-powered food processing.

At the same time, as part of its reintegration programmes, REMAR operates vegetable gardens and small-scale livestock farming – a combination of food security and vocational training.

Sport as a tool for integration

Annual football tournament

The annual football tournament organised by REMAR Sport Burkina Faso brings together children from children's homes and partner projects.

8–17 years

In this context, sport is not an end in itself; it serves as a tool for empowerment, community building, and values education for children and young people aged 8 to 17.

Annual budget:
CHF 200,000

Ports of receipt:
Lomé (Togo), Abidjan (Côte d'Ivoire), Tema (Ghana)

Ghana

Active since 2003. Annual budget: around CHF 20,000. The REMAR Ghana Reception and Rehabilitation Centre in Nsawam operates as an independent "recovery village" on land owned by REMAR; it combines rehabilitation, education, vocational training, and agriculture with the goal of full social reintegration.

Educational programme

The REMAR school on the Nsawam site covers the entire educational path – from nursery to the end of basic school (BS8). Twenty teachers currently instruct 179 students.

Nursery 21 | Kindergarten 1: 10 | Kindergarten 2: 16 | Primary 1-8: 132 (BS1: 14, BS2: 16, BS3: 13, BS4: 18, BS5: 20, BS6: 13, BS7: 17, BS8: 21)

90% of students continue their education at a secondary high school after graduation – a strong indicator of the quality of local basic education.

Football Academy

The REMAR Ghana Soccer Academy is officially registered with the Ghanaian Ministry of Sports. 109 boys aged 6 to 25 train across four age groups:

U10-13: 25 | U13-15: 30 | U15-17: 19 | Senior Division 2: 35

Agriculture and Income Generation

Agricultural activities in Nsawam combine food security with income generation. A rubber plantation with 2,000 trees produces around 3 tonnes annually, which are sold through a partnership with the National Investment Bank (NIB) – the bank provides equipment and purchases the harvest. A mango plantation featuring 1,500 trees imported from Burkina Faso supplies the Blue Sky Company, which collaborates with the Agri House Foundation. Small-scale livestock farming (pigs, chickens, goats) currently meets the community's own needs; a surplus for external sale is being planned.

Vocational training

Around ten specialist instructors lead hands-on workshops in carpentry, mechanics, and agriculture. A bakery is currently being brought into operation; the infrastructure is in place, and clear sales protocols have been defined for internal needs and for sales to surrounding villages.

Employment partnerships

REMAR Ghana maintains an annually renewed Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with MTN Ghana and offers structured internship programmes that specifically prepare beneficiaries for the labour market.

Côte d'Ivoire

REMAR Côte d'Ivoire combines educational initiatives, social care, and the provision of basic humanitarian aid for people in particularly vulnerable situations. Its work encompasses academic support, care in social centres, and meal programmes, as well as regular assistance for prisoners and individuals lacking family support.

Programme activities

In Anyama, REMAR operates a school with around 360 students. In addition, REMAR maintains a presence at 17 centres across Abidjan, Anyama, Yaou (Bonoua), Dabou, Bouaké, and Yamoussoukro. At these locations, the organisation supports families, women, men, young people, and children affected by poverty, social exclusion, or unstable living situations.

A special focus is placed on humanitarian prison aid. For many years, REMAR has regularly visited the large MACA prison in Côte d'Ivoire, distributing meals to inmates who receive no support from their families.

In addition, REMAR operates a monthly community canteen in the Marcory district of Abidjan, providing meals to around 500 people. In total, REMAR Côte d'Ivoire currently cares for approximately 475 individuals in its own centres.

The port of Abidjan also plays a key logistical role in the transport of humanitarian aid to West Africa, serving as a central route for container shipments to the region.

Port of receipt: Abidjan (Côte d'Ivoire) – one of West Africa's largest ports

Poland

Since 2023, REMAR Poland has combined direct social work with faith-based community and economic self-help. The program comprises five pillars: a residence for boys; a residence for girls and families; street outreach; meals for the elderly as well as for homeless and needy adults facing particular challenges; and income-generating activities to fund the projects.
